5 THINGS TO KNOW

WELCOME TO METRO BOSTON

MATT BURKE, SPORTS EDITOR

Even if you win Mega Millions tonight, it might not be enough to cover what you'll pay for tickets at Fenway for Game 1 of the World Series. The cheapest ticket going right now is $535. I once thought it would be a bright idea to buy the cheapest seat in the park on a Friday night in the summer for a regular-season Sox game. Turns out I was stuck behind one of those giant poles in right field, which perfectly blocked out the pitcher's mound. Instead, I just went the standing-room-only route. After subtly pushing, nudging and shoving others for a few innings, I finally found a spot where I could kind of see the pitcher. Something tells me it will be harder to get a clear view of the field tonight if you go the "cheap route" to get into the ballpark. For more on the World Series, please see pages 8-9 and metro.us.

MAN SHOT TRYING TO BREAK INTO TV STATION

1 A security guard shot and wounded a man who kicked in the front doors of the offices of the Fox 5 channel in Washington, D.C., on Monday afternoon, the television station and police said. Security-camera video aired by the station showed the suspect, who police said was unarmed, kicking through two sets of plexiglass doors that lead into the building's lobby before being shot. "The man was reportedly confronted by a Fox 5-contracted security guard who shot the suspect in the upper torso," the channel, owned and operated by Fox Television Stations, reported. No one else was hurt, according to Fox 5 and the police. The man, who has not been publicly identified, was carried into an ambulance on a stretcher and taken to a hospital conscious but in critical condition, the channel reported. Melvin Gresham, a Metropolitan Police Department commander, told reporters at the scene the man was "stable, alert and conscious." Police did not discuss a possible motive for the incident. In June, a suspect who police said was motivated by a long-standing grudge against the Capital Gazette newspaper group in Annapolis, Md., shot and killed five people in the newsroom.

GIULIANI: MANAFORT SAID NOTHING DAMAGING

2 Under an unusual arrangement, Paul Manafort's attorney has kept Donald Trump informed about the former campaign chairman's meetings with prosecutors investigating Russian meddling in the 2016 U.S. election and, according to Trump's lawyer, Manafort has not said anything damaging about the president. Rudy Giuliani, who represents Trump in the Russia probe, told Reuters that he had spoken with Manafort's lawyer, Kevin Downing, as recently as last week. Manafort pleaded guilty on Sept. 14 to violating foreign lobbying laws and trying to obstruct justice. He was convicted at trial in another case in August. Giuliani said the conversations were occurring under a so-called joint defense agreement, which allows lawyers who represent different clients to exchange information without violating attorney-client privilege. Legal experts said it was unusual for such an agreement to remain in effect after a person pleads guilty and agrees to cooperate with prosecutors as Manafort has done. Manafort is talking to Special Counsel Robert Mueller "about a lot of things, none of which are incriminating with regard to the president," Giuliani said.

ACTIVISTS RALLY FOR TRANSGENDER RIGHTS OUTSIDE THE WHITE HOUSE

3 LGBT activists from the National Center for Transgender Equality, partner organizations and their supporters held a "We Will Not Be Erased" rally in front of the White House on Monday. Members of the LGBT community and their supporters across the country mobilized quickly to show support for transgender rights after the New York Times published news of an unreleased Trump administration memo that proposes a strict definition of gender based on a person's genitalia at birth.

TRUMP: UNSATISFIED WITH SAUDI ACCOUNT

4 President Donald Trump said on Monday he was still not satisfied with what he has heard from Saudi Arabia about the killing of journalist Jamal Khashoggi in Turkey, but did not want to lose investment from Riyadh. Trump said he had spoken with Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman, the de facto ruler of the world's top oil exporter, and has teams in Saudi Arabia and Turkey working on the case. He said he will know more after they return to Washington on Monday night or Tuesday. "I am not satisfied with what I've heard," Trump told reporters at the White House. "I don't want to lose all that investment that's been made in our country. But we're going to get to the bottom of it." Trump has expressed reluctance to punish the Saudis economically, citing the kingdom's multibillion-dollar purchases of U.S. military equipment and investments in U.S. companies. Khashoggi, a Washington Post columnist and critic of Prince Mohammed who lived in the United States, disappeared after he entered the Saudi consulate in Istanbul on Oct. 2 to obtain documents for his upcoming marriage.

ITALIAN SWEATER MOGUL BENETTON DIES AT AGE 77

5 Gilberto Benetton, a co-founder of Italian clothing retailer United Colors of Benetton who masterminded the family empire's diversification into construction, transport and catering, has died at the age of 77. The former head of family holding company Edizione which controls Italy's biggest infrastructure group Atlantia, died after a short illness, the family said on Monday. With his brothers Luciano and Carlo and sister Giuliana, Gilberto founded United Colors of Benetton in a small town in northeast Italy in 1965. Carlo died earlier this year. The retailer rose to fame in the 1980s and 1990s with its brightly colored sweaters but faced headwinds in recent times as demand for its products fell. Besides Atlantia, the Benettons, one of Italy's richest families, also control travel caterer Autogrill and Rome's airports. As the only member of the family on the Atlantia board, Gilberto faced a major crisis when a bridge in Genoa operated by a unit of Atlantia collapsed in August, killing 43 people.

Mega Millions $1.6B jackpot equivalent to Belize GDP

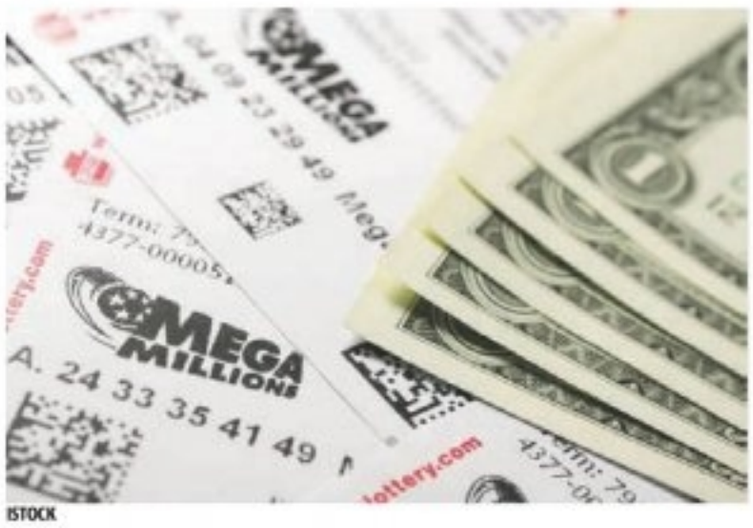
There are plenty of crazy facts that put Tuesday's record-breaking jackpot into perspective.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

It's official: The Mega Millions lottery has reached a new record with a $1.6 billion jackpot, with an immediate cash option of $904 million.

Six numbered ping-pong balls have been drawn 25 times without a winner, growing the lottery total to a staggering amount and feeding the Mega Millions frenzy.

Those who buy a Mega Millions ticket for Tuesday's drawing have a 1 in 302.6 million chance of winning that record-breaking jackpot. But $1.6 billion is a hard number to wrap your head around, so here's a few ways to understand just how big that total truly is.



ISTOCK

While nobody won last week's over-$1 billion Mega Millions jackpot, 15 people across the country did win $1 million from the lottery (that prize, won by matching the first five numbers on a ticket, comes with odds of 1 in 12 million).

Though that's also a hefty paycheck, there's a huge difference between a million and a billion, of course. Those numbers can seem abstract, so think about it this way: One million seconds is about 12 days, while 1 billion seconds is 31.7 years.

There are about 11 million millionaires in the United States alone, but billionaires are considerably more rare. Out of the nation's 325.7 million people, only 585 are billionaires, according to Forbes.

Even within that title of billionaire, total wealth varies widely. Jeff Bezos tops the 2018 Forbes 400 list with a net worth of $160 billion. For contrast, Oprah has "only" $2.8 billion.

Winning $1.6 billion from the Mega Millions jackpot wouldn't put you on the 2018 Forbes 400 List, unfortunately — the list had a cutoff of $2.1 billion, with 18 tying for the last spot this year — but it would make you worth more than Kanye West's clothing line, Yeezy. The Yeezy brand received a valuation of $1.5 billion back in August.

The Mega Millions jackpot is also on par with the GDP of Belize.

> Kanye West's clothing line, Yeezy

> • The Yeezy brand received a valuation of $1.5 billion back in August.

The Central American country has a gross domestic product of $1.699 billion in U.S. dollars, according to the United Nations. That means the Mega Millions jackpot is higher than the GDP of 30 countries, including Saint Lucia, the British Virgin Islands and Turks and Caicos.

BRIEF

Mega Millions website crashes as record jackpot draws clicks

Gregory Baron, 24, and Ben Nelson, 27, on Monday were eagerly purchasing $2 tickets for the Mega Millions jackpot in hopes of winning the record-setting $1.6 billion prize and becoming among the richest people in the world.

"I would incorporate myself as a business and become my own company," Baron said inside the Port Authority Bus Terminal in Manhattan, adding that he would also pay off his student loans and parents' mortgage and donate to charities if he wins.

"I would want to set myself up, but still be working so I don't erode into nothingness," Baron said.

Lottery players face odds of 1 in 303 million of winning the Mega Millions drawing Tuesday night. In comparison, the odds of getting killed by a shark are 1 in 3.7 million in a lifetime, according to the International Shark Attack File.

The Mega Millions website briefly crashed on Monday ahead of the drawing due to a surge in visitors, said a spokeswoman for the Maryland Lottery and Gaming Control Agency, which administers the website. REUTERS

Trump vows to cut Central America aid, raises alarm on migrant caravan

GETTY IMAGES

President Donald Trump on Monday vowed to begin curtailing the tens of millions of dollars in American aid to three Central American nations and called a caravan of migrants bound for the United States a national emergency as he sought to boost his party's chances in Nov. 6 congressional elections.

"Guatemala, Honduras and El Salvador were not able to do the job of stopping people from leaving their country and coming illegally to the U.S. We will now begin cutting off, or substantially reducing, the massive foreign aid routinely given to them," Trump wrote in a series of Twitter posts.

"We will now begin cutting off, or substantially reducing, the massive foreign aid routinely given to them."

President Trump

Trump and his fellow Republicans have sought to elevate the caravan, currently in southern Mexico inching toward the distant U.S. border, and immigration as campaign issues ahead of the midterm elections, in which his party is fighting to maintain control of the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives.

"Remember the Midterms!" Trump wrote in Twitter posts decrying the caravan and attacking Democrats on immigration, as Republicans sought to energize their conservative political base.

U.S. administrations long have seen aid programs as an essential part of efforts to stabilize the countries of Central America and stem the flow of migrants leaving.

Trump, who has taken a hard line toward illegal immigration since taking office last year, wrote that he had alerted the U.S. military and Border Patrol "that this is a National Emergy [sic]," but did not say what actions he was planning. He also complained that Mexico's police and military "are unable to stop" the caravan.

The caravan was moving north again on Monday as migrants poured out of the southern Mexican city of Tapachula near the Guatemalan border, bound for Tuxtla Gutierrez, the capital of Chiapas state. Some shielded themselves from the midday sun with umbrellas, others with bits of cardboard on which they had slept the previous night. As they left the city and crossed a highway, Mexican drivers honked their horns in solidarity.

U.N. spokesman Farhan Haq estimated that the caravan includes more than 7,000 people, "many of whom intend to continue the march north" toward the United States.

Trump travels to Texas, a key border state, later on Monday to campaign for Republican U.S. Sen. Ted Cruz, who is seeking re-election.

Trump was not specific about further aid cuts. Trump also said, without providing evidence, that "criminals and unknown Middle Easterners" are mixed in with the caravan, a claim immigration advocates disputed.

Writing in response to Trump on Twitter, Democratic U.S. Rep. Don Beyer said: "Trump and the Republicans have controlled the White House and Congress for the past two years. Anytime he whines about immigration, just remember that they have no real solutions." REUTERS

Bleacher Bar has one of the best views of Fenway Park. PROVIDED

Fenway favorites for watching the Fall Classic

Head to these local bars to celebrate the Red Sox's latest World Series run.

MATT JUUL
matthew.juul@metro.us

In case you haven't heard the good news yet, the Red Sox have punched their ticket to the World Series 2018 with their epic win over the Astros. Since November baseball is heading back to Boston, it's time to find the perfect spot to set up shop for cheering on the Red Sox during this year's Fall Classic. If you aren't lucky enough to score a ticket to the festivities, don't worry, because there are plenty of awesome Fenway Park bars to watch all the action from. Here's our guide to some of the best hotspots near the ballpark.

Bleacher Bar

There's only one place in town where you can watch a game live without needing a ticket into Fenway Park: Bleacher Bar. Located beneath the venue's bleachers on Lansdowne Street, this area attraction features an enormous garage window that looks right into the ballpark. Sip on local favorites on draft like Sam Adams and Harpoon while munching on one of Bleacher Bar's acclaimed sandwiches. 82A Lansdowne St., bleacherbarboston.com

Cask 'n Flagon

As one of the most popular spots in the Fenway neighborhood, you can't go wrong with Cask 'n Flagon. Located right across the street from the historic ballpark, this fan-favorite bar has everything you need for a World Series watch party. Catch all the action on Cask's collection of big-screen TVs while enjoying bar bites like pork belly tacos,

Red-hot Sox set for Game 1, tested Dodgers

The Red Sox open play in the 2018 World Series against L.A. tonight at Fenway Park.

MATT BURKE
matthew.burke@metro.us

After 115 wins in the past seven months, the Red Sox are now just four victories away from a World Series championship. Record-wise, this will go down as the greatest Boston team of all time if they are able to seal the deal in the next eight days.

Relative to the last three times the Sox won it all, this October has been mostly drama-free as the Sox have steamrolled the competition to this point. The 2004 Red Sox, who broke the famed Curse of the Bambino, played in four do-or-die games that postseason. The 2007 Red Sox, thought of by many as the most talented Sox team to win this century, played in three win-or-go-home contests that October. The 2013 Sox did not play in a do-or-die game, but did have two series go six games.

The only hiccup so far with this 2018 group is that they have dropped one of the first two games at Fenway in both of their series so far. David Price was pulled early in Game 2 of the Yankees series, and Chris Sale was pulled early in Game 1 of the ALCS against Houston.

World Series schedule

Game 1 Tonight at Boston (8:09 p.m., FOX)

Game 2 Tomorrow at Boston (8:09 p.m., FOX)

L.A. laser show

Much is made about the Red Sox offense, but the Dodgers killed it at the plate this season as well. Los Angeles led the National League in runs scored this season with 804 and led the NL in home runs with 235 team dingers (27 more than the Red Sox, who had 208).

The Dodgers had eight players hit over 20 home runs this season in Manny Machado (37), Max Muncy (35), Cody Bellinger (25), Joc Pederson (25), Yasmani Grandal (24), Yasiel Puig (23), Matt Kemp (21) and Enrique Hernandez (21).

The 23-year-old Bellinger was the MVP of L.A.'s seven-game series win over the Brewers in the NLCS as he blasted a two-run homer in Game 7.

The Red Sox are very familiar with Machado, as the shortstop spent six seasons in the AL East as a member of the Orioles. Machado injured Sox second baseman Dustin Pedroia last season on a slide at second base and Matt Barnes threw a retaliation fastball behind Machado's head two days after the incident. That prompted an expletive-laced tirade in the media from Machado, who, among other things, called the Red Sox a bunch of "cowards."

Aries Don't make a fuss. You should overlook the little things in life that aggravate you. Enjoy spending time with a loved one. Choose peace over discord.

Taurus If you don't like something, change it. Do what must be done. You are in charge of your fate, so get cracking! Personal changes will please you.

Gemini If you work under the radar, you'll get more done. As soon as you share your intentions, you'll be faced with interference. Be careful and precise before you present something to others.

Cancer Monitor the changes going on around you, but don't meddle. You have far more to gain by keeping your distance and doing your own thing. Personal improvements, love and romance are favored.

Leo Make plans to do something fun and budget-friendly with either a loved one or co-worker. Moderation and attention to detail will be key to your success.

Virgo Focus on finishing what you start without taking a risk or overspending. A change to the way you do things or an update to your skills will broaden your prospects.

Libra Do something nice for someone you care about. Making a kind gesture or reaching out and offering help will make a difference and bring you satisfaction.

Scorpio Take care of your responsibilities to maintain your reputation. As long as you are doing your part, you'll be praised for your contribution.

Sagittarius Invest in yourself, your home and your family, but don't trust anyone to handle your money or personal matters for you. Work hard for what you want to see happen.

Capricorn Put your emotions aside when dealing with peers or matters that could affect your status or relationship with someone special. Practicality and common sense are what's required.

Aquarius Keep moving, as physical activity will help you blow off steam and improve your core strength. Don't give in to pressure tactics being used to prompt you to engage in excessive behavior.

Pisces A new project, contract or investment will change your life. There is money to be made if you are innovative and hardworking. An unusual relationship will develop. EUGENIA LAST
